FOREWORD

For the assistance of teachers and trustees of rural schools, who desire to purchase books for library purposes, the following lists of titles have been prepared by Mrs. Theodora R. Brewitt, Librarian.

Superintendents, trustees, and teachers may secure copies of this bulletin upon request.

GEORGE H. BLACK,
President.

At the request of the Rural Department, the Librarian has prepared the following lists of book titles. It is hoped that these lists will be of assistance to teachers and trustees of the country schools in enabling them to more readily make selections of useful books and to so purchase them as to keep a well balanced library. It is suggested that the expenditure of funds available for library purchases be apportioned as evenly as possible to all classes not already represented by books purchased and in the library. Where feasible, the choice in the order of purchase of any class has been indicated by figures, or by using a * for the most desirable.

For valuable suggestions concerning the cataloging and use of school libraries, see Lewiston State Normal School bulletin, vol. 5, no. 1, "School libraries."

Public documents

The United States government publishes many books and pamphlets on various subjects which may be obtained free or at a small cost. Send to the departments which issue them, the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., or apply to your congressman. The following are some of the most useful ones:

U. S.—Agriculture dep't. Farmers' bulletins.

Pamphlets on all subjects of interest to the farmer treated in a simple non-technical manner. They contain a good deal of material useful in school work. Apply to your congressman or the Agriculture department.

U. S.—Agriculture dep't. Year book.

Good for commercial geography and other topics.

Congressional record.

Daily record of debates and proceedings in Congress.

Very useful for debates. Apply to your congressman.

U. S.—Education bureau. Annual report of the commissioner.

One of the most important educational publications in the country. Apply to your congressman.

A. L. A. catalog: 8000 volumes for a popular library with notes.

A most valuable aid in cataloging, classification and book selection. Can be purchased of the Superintendent of Documents for $1.00.

Egleston, N. H. Arbor day, its history and observance.

Issued by the Department of Agriculture.
